

TAMARAC REFUGE NATIONAL PUBLIC LANDS DAY

White Pine Seedling ready for bud capping

September 24, 2016
9 AM – 3 PM

Collect Native Seeds While Saving our Trees!

Join naturalists in the field for bud-capping trees on National Public Lands Day to help save 15,000+ red, white, and jack pine seedlings from deer browse. Learn about pine and prairie habitat, restoration efforts, and benefits of bud-capping trees while collecting native seeds.

- Bring a water bottle, wear long pants and sturdy shoes, and pack snacks for the day. Extra water is available.
- Meet at the Tamarac Refuge Visitor Center (address below).
- Pre-register or show up with a lunch for the day

National Public Lands Day is more than a day to enjoy our public lands. It is a day to remember why we preserved public lands in the first place. Help save the seedlings!

FREE T-SHIRT- FIRST 15 YOUTH

Participants who pre-register by Aug. 26 will receive a free lunch & t-shirt:
